

Gilbert Dechambenoit is a Professor of Neurosurgery at the Faculty of Medicine, Abidjan (Ivory Coast), attached to the Amiens University Teaching Hospital in France and practices private medicine in Boulogne-sur-mer (France).

A graduate of the Faculty of Medicine of Nantes (France), he is a holder of Diplomas in Anatomy, Neurology and Neurosurgery (Limoges & Paris) with fellowships in Paediatric Neurosurgery (Prof M. Choux), Pituitary (Prof F. Grisoli).

Currently, his interest is focused on minimally invasive spine surgery, the training of neurosurgeons in the world and particularly in Africa his continent of origin. As a holder of an Msc in Health Economics (Paris) he is equally concerned about the accessibility and equity to health.

He is the author of several articles and communications and has directed reference books in neurosurgery including the "Handbook of Neurosurgery/Manuel de neurochirurgie" (French College of Neurosurgery), "Approaches for spinal surgery" and "Essentials in Neurosurgery Practice" (World Federation of Neurosurgical Societies) He is the President of the PAANS (Pan African Association of Neurosciences), Secretary of the French College of Neurosurgery, member of the Education Committee of the World Federation of Neurosurgical Societies, Editor in chief of the African Journal of Neurological Sciences and member of the Editorial Board of « Surgical Neurology International » and « World Neurosurgery »